For those of you that would like a voyeuristic view into the GTD Global Summit, I present for your lengthy reading pleasure all of the tweets from the legions of twitterers that are attending the summit. (And there are many, at least half the audience is on twitter).

These are in reverse chronological order so you can take a trip back in time from present moment to last night's cocktail party or you can start at the bottom and work your way forward in time to see the event blossom in the way that it actually has. Either way there are some wonderful pearls here as many of the tweets are actual quotes from the speakers presenting at the conference.
